DEHYDRATION

The proposition of a dehydrating company to establish a plant at Monett caused many Monett people to ask, "What is dehydration?" To dehydrate, according to Webster, is to deprive, or to be freed of water or the elements of water.

In the September American Magazine is an article by Marston Taylor Bogert, "The New Marvels of Chemistry in your Everyday Life," in which he touches briefly on dehydration.

He says: "During the war we learned a great deal about this subject. Dehydration was really a new industry with us, though it was further advanced in other countries. Now, by slow and careful experiments, our chemists are laying the foundation for a great industry."

"Success depends upon the method of drying. By the old method the water was removed from the fruit and vegetables too quickly and the cell structure was so rapidly that the product injured. By the improved method the products are put on traveling trays and passed through heated chambers with a moist atmosphere. After a while, but not too rapidly, they dry up, and you have vegetables that will keep indefinitely and can be stored in a much smaller space than the original product."

Potatoes dehydrated by the British for use in the Boer war were actually used by them in the recent war."

By dehydrated fruits and vegetables, which ordinarily go to waste on farms can be saved and will bring to the farmer an increased income. The dehydration plants employ many women and girls, who can thus add to the family purse.

Some of this class of product is now on the market at Monett, but the demand is small, the public in this district having not been educated up to its usefulness and excellent food values.

WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT ARE PRICELESS

With schools already started, it should not be forgotten that a word of encouragement is often like an oasis in a desert. These young folks have troubles and their little troubles trouble them as much as our big troubles trouble us. Books are new, the teacher may be new, and many of the acquaintances are new. And in the maze of strange circumstances, it is not to be wondered at that many boys and girls get discouraged. Remember, that "well begun is half done," and be lavish rather than niggardly in encouraging better school work.—Farm Life.

There is lots of time in 24 hours, but not enough that one can afford to devote any considerable part of it to the nursing of hatreds.—Springfield Republican.

Surely bobbed hair ought to make it easier for the girls to keep a cool head, suggested the El Reno American.

An income is something that comes in but doesn't stay in, observed the Bartlesville Enterprise.

THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS THE DOOR TO LONG LIVING

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.

Another marriage of recent occurrence that is quite interesting is that of Miss Hortense Dwyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer, 306 Sixth street, and L. D. Hall, of Oklahoma City. The wedding took place at Oklahoma City on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the presence of relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Dwyer, parents of the bride, attended.

The bride has made her home in Oklahoma City for the past several months and has held a position with a prominent oil company. Mr. Hall has the agency for the Oakland automobiles at Oklahoma City, and the young couple will make their home at that place.
